NEW YORK BROILS IN TROPIC HEAT

Mercury Stood At 80 Degrees At 8 o'Clock This Morning—West Shivers

Washington, Sept. 15.—New York City broiled at 80 degrees at 8 o'clock while Wyoming shivered at 28, the weather bureau announced today.

The highest temperatures were recorded in the Ohio valley and in the eastern and southern states. On the other hand, the Mississippi valley, the lakes region and the plains states were almost cool.

The Rocky mountain region showed the lowest figures, and Chicago had some relief from the general sweltering heat wave as the result of cool winds off the lakes.

The weather man predicted that New England, New York and the upper Ohio valley would have cooler weather tomorrow.

In this city at 8 o'clock, the mercury touched 74, while the humidity reached the insufferable mark of 94, and was still rising. There were no signs of relief.

Last night, particularly in the east side where the masses of the poor dwell, thinly clad persons sought relief on fire escapes, roofs and congested sidewalks. But to add to their misery, they were plagued by mosquitoes.

Three dead and many prostrated stood early today as the heat toll.

No Relief In Sight

Washington, Sept. 15.—The weather man promised no relief today for thousands suffering from an unprecedented heat wave in the eastern states, though he predicted lower temperatures for the middle west and the Great Lakes region.

Those in charge of the second annual open Willamette valley tennis tournament, which will be held in this city the last three days of next week, are much encouraged by the interest that is being taken, not only by the local players, but by those in the valley who are interested in the game. Four trophies will be offered, the men's championship of the Willamette valley, ladies' championship, men's doubles, and ladies' and men's doubles. Entries must be received by Wednesday evening, September 22, accompanied by a fee of $1 for each player in each event. Paul Wallace is committee chairman.

The Orpheus Male chorus has secured club rooms in the Hubbard building and today is installing furniture and fixtures to make it one of the home-like club rooms of the city. The next public appearance of the chorus will be at the state fair when they will sing Thursday evening, September 23, for the Elks. Although the Orpheus Male chorus has been organized but a few months, it is now recognized as one of Salem's leading musical organizations and has been asked to appear in concert this winter at Dallas, McMinville, Independence and other valley towns. Dan Langenberg is director, and A. L. Wallace, business manager.

The Salem Poultry and Egg Circle, established under the direction of the Oregon Agricultural college, is gradually extending its circle of customers and becoming an important adjunct in the disposing of eggs in the immediate section. This week the Circle is disposing of its eggs at 30 and 31 cents, all shipped to Portland and other markets by the manager, Sherrill Fleming. Other egg circles will doubtless be established this fall by the O. A. C. and to fully explain its methods of working, the circle has secured a booth at a state fair, where Mr. Fleming, assisted by an expert from the O. A. C., will explain the workings of the circle, how those in the east are handled, and the advantages to the poultry men here of securing markets.

The east is east, and the west is west, and the folks out west do things a little different from the folks back east. One would hardly expect the back east to celebrate the close of the working season by a jubilation in the factory in which they had worked for several months. Yet last evening, the 200 employees of the Hunt Bros. company, assisted by the manager, Wm. G. Allen, celebrated the closing of the canning season by giving a dance and party, fully 300 being present. The young ladies decorated the large packing room, the young men draped banners, and the large room was made into a comfortable dancing hall. Music was furnished by a piano and orchestra, and refreshments served. It was the Oregon spirit of good will towards all, and an appreciation by the 200 employees of the spirit of fairness and courtesy of the firm under the management of Mr. Allen.

A model fruit evaporator, one that is attracting much attention in different parts of the state, has been constructed by Fred A. McIntyre of this city. A plant has recently been just completed by Mr. McIntyre for the Indiana Orchard company at Nappa, Ore., at a cost of close to $15,000. The fruit growers in that part of the state are becoming interested in the evaporation idea, as often there is no market for the fresh fruit. This evaporation plant at Nappa is one of the best in the Snake river country and is equipped with the latest machinery for handling the fruit from the time it is brought to the drier to the time it is packed, ready for the market. It has a capacity of one ton per hour. As there were hundreds of bushels of peaches in that part of the country that went to waste, the growers are now more inclined to become interested in the new art. There is a general feeling that wherever a fruit market is not assured, an evaporator would be a profitable investment.

HEAT CLOSES SCHOOLS

Boston, Mass., Sept. 15.—Extreme heat caused public schools here to be closed today. This was the first time in Boston's history that this has occurred.

BIG BUSINESS TAKES HEART ON LOAN PROSPECT

Report Reaches Wall Street That Administration Will Not Interfere

Washington, Sept. 15.—Assurances that the administration considers the proposed American billion dollar loan or credit for the allies within the limits of neutrality, and will not interfere, came unofficially today from the White House.

New York, Sept. 15.—"Big business" took heart today at unofficial word that the White House would not interfere with the proposed billion dollar loan to the allies on the ground of violation of neutrality.

The chief point now in the negotiations is the attitude toward German-American bankers, or institutions with German connections. There appeared today to be a good chance that the big American houses would be invited to participate in the loan negotiations.

There appeared to be a growing feeling among these houses that they ought to be invited, because, as some pointed out, they are primarily interested in improvement of American business regardless of any sympathy they may feel for the fatherland.

Inasmuch as the loan is designed chiefly as a credit for huge purchases of wheat and meat, it was regarded as strictly a means of bettering American business, without, at the same time aiding the allies from a military standpoint.

The allied commissioners continued to be under guard, and to keep their movements secret, as a result of threats apparently from "cranks" to do them harm.

Prospects for consummating the loan seemed brighter today. The financial community had begun to fear there were insurmountable difficulties. Today optimism was on the upgrade. The word from Washington, coupled with a growing belief that Germany will make no formal objection, in view of the fact that she herself has borrowed in this market, led big bankers to feel that the allies proposals will go through.

The proposition of loaning without other collateral than allied bonds is still unsettled. Simultaneously, it was announced that citizens whose names were not given, had telegraphed protests against the loan. One Michigan resident predicted a panic if the people's money were loaned to the allies without security other than allied notes.

It was understood the administration regards the loan as merely a necessary detail in transactions where the allies are purchasing supplies in America.

In this connection, it was pointed out, that the credit will be used largely in meeting debts already incurred in America, and that the allies do not propose to use the money outside of this country.

The administration, it was reported, sees no difference between the billion dollar allied proposal, and the $10,000,000 obtained here on German securities recently—except in size.

Hughes Is First Choice of Oregon Republicans

Portland, Ore., Sept. 15.—That Justice Charles E. Hughes is the first choice of the republican voters of Oregon for the presidential nomination is indicated by a letter received today by Edward D. Baldwin, secretary of the state republican committee. Request was made of party executive officers in each county to give their judgment as to preference of the rank and file of the party, the information to be turned over to Secretary James B. Reynolds of the republican national committee, now here. Replies gave Hughes a percentage of 56 for first place, with Senator Borah of Idaho popular second choice.

SELL PORTLAND REALTY.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 15.—City Auditor Barber is preparing advertisements today for the sale of property against which there are liens for street improvements, following action by city council to force delinquent property owners to pay assessments aggregating $500,000.

If there are no private buyers when the property is offered for sale, the city plans to finance the purchase itself by appropriating money from the general fund. This drastic action was decided upon as the only alternative to protect the city's bond credit.

About one hundred thousand lots are affected by the plan.

AVIATOR BARIN INJURED

Roseburg, Ore., Sept. 15.—L. T. Barin, the aviator, who was scheduled to give exhibition airplane flights during the Douglas county fair here beginning today, was badly injured and his machine badly wrecked when he fell to the ground while making a trial flight this morning. His engine stopped while he was about 50 feet in the air and the airplane plunged head-on to the ground.

Barin's injuries are not serious.

There is no doubt about there being plenty of money in the country, especially among the farmers. At the auction held yesterday a mile and a half southwest of Turner by L. Drabough, seven head of horses, 17 cattle, 6 hogs and various farm implements were sold at good prices by Auctioneer W. F. Wright. Mr. Drabough disposed of his holdings in order that he might leave for his claim near Philomath.

Night Raiders Make Night Hideous For Band of Unprotected "Frosh"

With muffled tread and quiet whisperings a picked body of hophomores of Willamette university crept upon a group of unsuspecting "frosh" at Walker hall last night. After a short struggle the "frosh" were subdued and rushed out of town. One of the captured asked for the privilege of notifying the people of the house where he was working that he would not be in until late. This was granted, and while so doing he phoned to a number of freshmen to come to the rescue. Great was the surprise of the sophs when they were met by a bunch of new opponents, but nothing daunted they took them along, and a match on could have seen a six-passenger car speeding down the street with fifteen passengers. The captive frosh were taken to nearby towns and villages, where after receiving instructions from their hated opponents they were told they might walk back to Salem. One bright freshman found himself within a mile of Woodburn, so he walked to the depot and caught a night freight for Salem.

BAY RUM FOR HAIR TROUBLE

Do you know that ordinary bay rum is of great value in treating hair and scalp disorders? But the bay rum should never be applied to the hair or scalp. If you want to get rid of dandruff, stop falling hair, stimulate hair growth, beautify the hair and make the scalp feel good, undoubtedly the best thing to use is a mixture of six ounces of bay rum, two ounces of lavender oil, and one-half dram of menthol crystal. You can buy these ingredients at any drug store and mix them yourself at home or the druggist will mix them for you. If you like, add a teaspoonful of your favorite perfume. The bay rum is a fine scalp cleanser and the other ingredients make this mixture remarkably good to destroy dandruff, stimulate the hair growth, etc. Apply night and morning and rub well into the scalp with the finger tips.
